

Conflict Minerals Policy Statement

Introduction

As many of our suppliers and customers have acknowledged publicly, the Dodd-Frank Act* created a new expectation for product manufacturers, which may be far removed from the source of the raw minerals in their products.

Mercury Security distributes thousands of branded and private label products per year that include parts/components or assemblies that are manufactured by other companies located around the world.

Mercury Security is committed to acting in a socially and environmentally responsible manner, to complying with the law, to meeting its customer commitments, and to supporting its customers' businesses.

Because of the complexity of many supply chains and the lack of an established system for product manufacturers to track Conflict Minerals back to their source the joint efforts over an extended period by many governments, industry groups, and companies will be required to make it possible to effectively trace Conflict Minerals back to their source.

This document sets forth the policy of Mercury Security regarding Conflict Minerals.

Overview

As a responsible company, Mercury Security supports the goal of the Dodd-Frank Act of preventing armed groups in the Democratic Republic of the Congo and adjoining countries from benefitting from the sourcing of Conflict Minerals from that region.

As an industrial supply distributor of thousands of branded and private label products which include parts/components or assemblies that are manufactured by other companies located around the world, Mercury Security is invariably many levels away from the beginning of the supply chain for the products it distributes.

This Policy shows Mercury Security's commitment and its expectations for its product suppliers regarding actions to address Conflict Minerals.

* On July 21, 2010, the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act was signed into law. The Dodd-Frank Act and related 2012 U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission rules require certain companies to disclose whether the products they manufacture or contract to manufacture contain Conflict Minerals necessary for the production or the functionality of the products that are sourced from mines in the Democratic Republic of the Congo or adjoining countries. Conflict Minerals are tantalum, tin, tungsten and gold.

OUR COMMITMENT:

1. Support the aims and objectives of the Dodd-Frank Act concerning Conflict Minerals sourcing by working to educate the suppliers and manufacturers of the products we distribute about Conflict Minerals.
2. Help our suppliers understand the due diligence steps they can take to investigate the source of any Conflict Minerals in the products they sell to Mercury Security.
3. Not continue to source from a supplier any product that contains Conflict Minerals if Mercury Security determines the product is not DRC Conflict Free and the supplier fails to implement reasonable steps to transition to DRC Conflict Free sources.²

Commitment to Responsible Sourcing

Mercury Security distributes thousands of branded and private label products per year that include parts/components or assemblies that are manufactured by other companies located around the world.

Mercury Security supports the humanitarian goals of the Dodd-Frank Act and encourages the manufacturers of the products distributed by Mercury Security to adopt that same policy for their businesses.

As a distributor products that include parts/components or assemblies that are manufactured by other companies located around the world, Mercury Security does not directly purchase any raw Conflict Minerals from any source and is many levels removed from the mines, smelters, and refiners that produce the metals used in the products manufactured by Mercury Security's suppliers.

The supply chain for Conflict Minerals is complex and lacks an established structure for component and product manufacturers to trace the minerals in the finished goods distributed by Mercury Security back to their source.

Mercury Security is committed to working with its suppliers to educate them on these matters and concerning steps they can take to obtain increased transparency regarding the origin of minerals contained in the products they manufacture and sell to Mercury Security.

Supplier Code

Mercury Security has the following expectations of its suppliers:

- suppliers should not include in any products sold to Mercury Security any Conflict Minerals that are not DRC Conflict Free;
- suppliers should develop Conflict Minerals policies, due diligence frameworks, and management systems that are designed to prevent Conflict Minerals that are not DRC Conflict Free from being included in the products sold to Mercury Security; and
- Mercury Security's suppliers are expected to source Conflict Minerals only from sources that are DRC Conflict Free.

²Products are "DRC Conflict Free" if they contain only Conflict Minerals that did not originate in the DRC or an adjoining country, are from recycled or scrap sources, or have not benefitted the armed groups identified as perpetrators of the abuses that are the subject of the Dodd-Frank Act.

In doing so, suppliers will be expected to:

- implement and communicate to their personnel and suppliers policies that are consistent with this Policy, and require their direct and indirect suppliers to do the same;
- put in place procedures for the traceability of Conflict Minerals, working with their direct and indirect suppliers as applicable;
- use reasonable efforts to source Conflict Minerals from smelters and refiners validated as being DRC Conflict Free, and require their direct and indirect suppliers to do the same;
- advise Mercury Security of any determination that the supplier either has concluded or has a reasonable basis to believe that products it currently sells or has sold to Mercury Security are not DRC Conflict Free;
- maintain reviewable business records supporting the source of Conflict Minerals; and
- from time to time, at Mercury Security's request, provide Mercury Security with information concerning the origin of Conflict Minerals included in products sold to Mercury Security, which Mercury Security shall be entitled to use or disclose in satisfying any legal or regulatory requirements or in any customer or marketing communications, notwithstanding the terms of any confidentiality agreements that do not specifically reference this paragraph.

Suppliers also are encouraged to support industry efforts to enhance traceability and responsible practices in Conflict Minerals supply chains.

Consequences of Supplier Non-Compliance

Mercury Security evaluates its relationships with its suppliers on an ongoing basis.

Mercury Security reserves the right to evaluate the extent to which a supplier has failed to reasonably comply with this Policy.

Mercury Security reserves the right to request additional documentation from its suppliers regarding the origin of any Conflict Minerals included in any products sold to Mercury Security.

Suppliers who do not reasonably comply with this Policy shall be reviewed by Mercury Security's supply chain organization for future business.

In the event Mercury Security determines that a supplier's efforts to comply with this Policy have been deficient and the supplier fails to cooperate in developing and implementing reasonable remedial steps, Mercury Security reserves the right to take appropriate actions up to and including discontinuing purchases from the supplier.

Nothing in this Policy is intended to in any way grant any additional rights or expectations to a Mercury Security supplier or in any way modify or otherwise limit in any way any of Mercury Security's contractual or legal rights.

Grievance Mechanism and Reporting

Our employees, suppliers and other parties can report concerns and alleged violations of this Policy as follows:
